Profile

I have great problem-solving skills that I use to tackle challenges as well as the ability to cohesively work within a team.

Soft skills are very important to me as I believe they complement the technical skills. I understand that communication is key to the success of any worthwhile endeavor. I can understand the need and requirements of others in order to understand the MVP and implement successfully.

Being a self-taught developer has taught me to be open-minded and research thoroughly, thus with these skills I am flexible partaking any role required for the needs and goals of the company.
